Origins of Film, 90 minute lecture.

As cinema approaches its centennial, Glenn Myrent of La Cinémathèque Française in Paris looks back at the pre-history of the movies, from 11th-century Chinese shadow puppets to 19th-century advances by Plateau, Reynaud, Muybridge, and Marey. Using slides from the collection of the Musée du Cinéma-Henri Langlois as well as rare 35mm film clips, Myrent pays tribute to the innovations of pre-WWI France, where many seeds of modern cinema were sown.
